

NEW JUDGE TO BE STRICT WITH MEN WHO QUAFF LIQUOR

Habitual Ornament of City Court Pen Won't Get Off Very Easily.

Bridgeport is likely to be hard upon those arrested for intoxication if Judge F. A. Bartlett's second day upon the city court bench is a criterion of what his policy will be. Instead of minor fines and short sentences these appearing in court to-day received jail sentences ranging from 10 to 40 days. Only one escaped lightly. The judge suspended his sentence when it was shown clearly to be his first offense.

Martin Dorick, arrested for intoxication, and assault upon his wife, at 143 George street, and who told a policeman that he had a right to do anything in his own house, was discharged of that belief by the court, and a sentence of 30 days in jail was imposed.

The case of Thomas Shanley, arrested for non-support and continued yesterday that his wife, the complainant might be procured upon a capias was threatened out at length. Shanley was ordered to pay $3 a week for one month while the probation officer investigated further.

It appeared from the statements of the prisoner that he had contributed rent for a house in which Mrs. Shanley lived, and that while he was an inmate of the same dwelling he was refused food and his washing was neglected. Mrs. Shanley said she had received no support from him for four years.

William Seppernack, 23 Morgan avenue and Edward Dobbs, accused of reckless driving, April 15, when they struck a girl with an automobile in which they were riding, were arraigned for the third time, two continuances previously having been granted. When a third was asked Judge Bartlett gave all concerned until next Saturday to complete their evidence, demanding that the trial then proceed.

BIG STEAMER STRANDED HERE AFTER LONG TRIP

After a successful journey all the way from Bellingham, Wash., through the Panama Canal to the local harbor, the steamer Mary Olson became stuck in the mud yesterday when she tried to navigate the Pequonnock river.

Loaded with 1,000,000 feet of lumber from the Northwest, the steamer, which is probably the largest that ever navigated the river above the Stratford avenue bridge. The Mary Olson tried to pass the Congress street bridge, where only 10 feet of water lies at ebb tide, but inasmuch as the Mary draws 11 feet, she did not make it and became stuck before the bridge was reached.

The crew waited for the incoming tide and the ship was floated on to the bridge as soon as the depth increased. The Mary Olson's cargo is being delivered at the A. W. Burritt Co.'s dock.

Bothers Return To Italy, One To Fight, Other For Deportation

Tears dimmed the eyes of Mrs. Vincenzo Chellino, last night, as she watched Vincenzo Chellino depart for Italy where he is to become a soldier in the army. Another son Frank, is soon to depart for the shores of Italy, but not so willingly.

Under the name of "Frank 'Pizzichini'" he was connected with the Cavalleri murder in Stratford, and prior to that served nearly seven years in Sing Sing prison. At the present time he is under detention at Ellis Island, a government prisoner, awaiting deportation. His brother probably will sail with him on the steamer Duc D'Abruzzi.

Says High School Job Spoiled His Horses

That his horses were injured by the high school job he had to do at the new high school excavation was the claim made by Edward J. Walsh when he testified this morning in the hearing of the suit brought by Robertson & Gavonne against Durkin & Leas, the New York contractors.

Walsh said he had 12 horses engaged in hauling earth from the excavation. The loads were so heavy, Walsh claimed, that when the work was finished the animals were worn down. Horses that were worth $200 had shrunk financially to a $100 value.

The testimony is being taken by Judge William H. Conley, Jr., who is acting as a committee. Robertson & Gavonne, the New York contractors who did the excavating work for Durkin & Leas, claim there is $14,000 due them. The hearing has not yet been finished.

Golfers Anderson And Travis Are Even In This Morning's Play

Bye, June 5.—Walter J. Travis, veteran of the golf links, and John G. Anderson, formerly of Boston, were even at the end of the morning play in the 36 hole final for the Metropolitan Championship over the course of the Apanawau club.

The play of both men over the 18 holes was somewhat ragged and rather disappointing to the big gallery which followed them over the links. Each made mistakes in driving and putting.

Travis with 32 and Anderson with 31 strokes for the 18 holes fell several strokes behind their average for the previous matches of the tournament. Scores were Travis 41-32, Anderson 42-31.

Fifteen-Year-Old Girl Critically Ill From Iodine Poison

Helen Hancock, aged 15, living at 111 Bell street, the victim of iodine poisoning, has not regained consciousness at the Bridgeport hospital long enough to tell the physicians how the poison was administered. Her condition is critical.

As far as can be learned today the girl was found lying in bed at 11 o'clock last night, apparently asleep, although her face and mouth bore marks of burning caused by the acid. She was at once removed to the Bridgeport hospital in the emergency ambulance, but she was unable to account for her condition. An empty bottle lay beside her bed. Those in the house cannot account for any reason for suicidal intent.

Newsies Who Shoot Crap Are Object of New Police Crusade

Sergeant James Ramsey began a crusade this morning against "crap-shooting" newsboys who have infested the alleyways in the rear of Water street. Upon the complaint of merchants on that street the alleyways were visited early today with the result that many youths were found indulging in the pastime. Three newsboys' badges were taken in one raid, although the owners managed to evade the police.

DR. SHARP FORFEITS BOND IN FAIRFIELD

(Special to The Farmer.) Fairfield, June 5.—Dr. E. T. Sharp of Derby forfeited a bond of $5 in the town court here this afternoon when he failed to appear in answer to a summons served upon him by Constable H. R. Elwood for reckless driving.

Dr. Sharp's car was wrecked here before daybreak Monday morning, and a young woman in the car with him was painfully, though not dangerously hurt. The doctor refused the bond preferring to avoid the notoriety of a suit.

William Lazark, aged 12, who ran away from his uncle's home at Stamford and was apprehended in this city yesterday, in a semi-starving condition, was returned to Stamford by the police to-day. His relatives claimed him.

WEST END GIRL BRIDE OF DENTIST

Anna Mabel Onkey and Dr. Joseph F. Keeley Plight Troth Today.

A small company of intimate friends and relatives witnessed the wedding this morning of Miss Anna Onkey, daughter of Philip J. Onkey of 651 Iranistan avenue, and Dr. Joseph Francis Keeley, son of Mrs. Ed. Fagan, of 1119 Central avenue, which was solemnized at 6:30 o'clock in Sacred Heart church, the nuptial mass being sung by the Rev. Richard Moore, D. D.

The dainty bride wore an attractive traveling shade of blue, with a hat of the same shade. Her bouquet was of white roses. Miss Helen Onkey, was her sister's maid of honor. Her costume, also of blue, was of a darker shade than that of her sister and her bouquet was of pink Killarney roses.

Dr. Keeley was attended by George Keating. A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony at the home of the bride to which only the immediate families of the young couple had been bidden. After a wedding trip to Philadelphia and Washington, Dr. and Mrs. Keeley will return to this city to make their home with the bridegroom's mother and step-father in Central avenue.

The bride, who has been employed as a stenographer with the American Graphophone Co., is an exceedingly popular young woman with a host of friends.

Dr. Keeley is a prominent young dentist with offices in the Security building. He was graduated from the University School, and is an alumnus of the University of Pennsylvania, 1912. He and his bride have received a large number of handsome and valuable wedding presents from their admiring friends.

NEWARK TIRED OF PAVING GRAB ENDS MONOPOLY

Continued from Page One miles of bitulithic have been put down. In a plain talk before the Board of Works a week ago Mr. Tichenor read letters from municipal engineers in New York, Brooklyn, Chicago, Buffalo, Detroit, Philadelphia and Baltimore, showing that bitulithic is not laid there. Some of these engineers say it has been found more expensive and less durable than asphalt. In these cities the average price per square yard for asphalt has been $1.75, and in New York city two weeks ago contracts were awarded at only $1.48 a yard. But Newark has been laying bitulithic at $2.25 per yard.

"Why do you do it?" asked Mr. Tichenor, and he waited for the commissioners to reply. "I can't understand it. Why do you do it?" he repeated. Finally Engineer Sherwood answered that the people petitioned for bitulithic.

"Don't you know how signatures to petitions are obtained?" was Mr. Tichenor's next question. "The bitulithic company sends out its agent to get them. He came to me and said his pavement was the best and the price was low, etc. He doubtless said the same thing to the other owners of lots in Chester avenue, and they agreed. When I told them the truth about bitulithic they immediately took their names off the petitions. What are such petitions worth? The city itself should provide blank petitions, showing the probable cost of different kinds of pavement, and no other petitions should be considered."

Mr. Tichenor said a study of Clinton avenue shows the comparative durability of asphalt and bitulithic. Beginning at the northern end, at Broad street, the avenue was paved with asphalt twenty years ago, and though the travel there is heavy the pavement is still good, with only moderate repairs. Farther out the avenue was paved with bitulithic twelve years ago, and though it has been resurfaced at least once it is today in bad condition. "Or contrast the bitulithic in Market street, Newark," said Mr. Tichenor, "with the asphalt in Fifth avenue, New York City."

To pave Chester avenue with bitulithic will cost the property owners about $190 for each twenty-five feet of frontage. It was figured that the cost of asphalt would be $40 less per lot. It remains to be seen which pavement the Board of Works will ask the people there to pay for.

H. K. McCay, the city engineer of Baltimore, wrote to Mr. Tichenor: "We are not laying any bitulithic pavement in Baltimore. This latter kind of pavement has proved very unsatisfactory and I have just taken up two squares of paving and replaced with sheet asphalt. I feel that when sheet asphalt is properly laid and put down under proper inspection it is far superior to bitulithic pavement, even at a less cost."

"Bitulithic costs more and is worth less so why should we lay it?" wrote the New York city engineer. In Washington no bitulithic has been laid. The cost of bituminous concrete on a six-inch base, under a contract which the municipality has made for this year, is $1.70 per square yard.

Robert H. McCormick, city engineer of Detroit, said only a small piece of bitulithic had been laid in that city, and that was many years ago. He believed it was well, but the street has since been repaved. Mr. McCormick added: "Detroit has for a number of years maintained its own asphalt plant and that class of pavement is preferred in this city."

The number of foreign built vessels admitted to American registry under the act of August 3, 1914, to May 29, was 147.

CAN'T WASTED HER CHILD SO OFTEN, IS COURT RULING

Orders Woman Who Gave Baby Cocktail, To See Child Less.

Louise Ladew Wenman Nave, the New York society woman who gave her baby boy a cocktail to drink, has been deprived of the privilege of seeing the child frequently, as in the past Judge Shumway of the superior court today handed down a decision modifying the terms of the divorce decree, which Mrs. Nave procured from Byrd Wilson Wenman, Sr., May 5, 1914.

Instead of having the custody of the boy for months each year and being allowed to see him twice a week, Mrs. Nave may only have him twice a month under the new ruling.

Wenman, who is a New York cotton broker and prominent in the Seventh Regiment as well as the Army and Navy club, is given the custody of the boy. He must pay for the boy's education. Judge Shumway decides that Mrs. Nave can see the boy at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Williams, in New York at Christmas and Easter Sunday. In case of the boy's illness the mother will be notified and have the right to be with him while the illness continues.

After Mrs. Nave obtained the divorce from Wenman on the ground of cruelty, she was married to S. Fritz Nave, son of a wealthy St. Louis real-estate man. A few days ago Wenman asked the court to modify the decree, claiming that Mrs. Nave was not a proper person to have the custody of the child for such a long period. Detectives told how they found the mother in Nave's apartments before she was married to him and a maid told of the gay drinking parties in which Mrs. Nave gave her boy the cocktail mentioned above.

BLUTE IS BEFORE CORONER IN PROBE OF SULLIVAN DEATH

Later this afternoon Coroner Phelan began an investigation of the death of Patrick Sullivan whose body was found Thursday morning in the shed in the rear of Madison Hill street.

At first it was thought Sullivan's death was due to alcoholism and exposure. Later an autopsy performed by Medical Examiner Garlick revealed a fracture of the skull several inches in length. Blute has been charged with manslaughter and is allowed his freedom under a bond of $5,000 furnished by Walter Anderson, of Brooklyn, brother-in-law of Sullivan, and Fred Kundert of 75 Dixon street, before the coroner to-day.

Maloney works as an extra bartender in the Blue eagle. One story is that Sullivan after drinking fell to the floor of the saloon. There is another to the effect that Sullivan on being refused drink became belated and was forcibly ejected from the saloon. There are wide discrepancies in the stories which the trio told the police and the authorities believe there was a deliberate attempt made to conceal the manner in which Sullivan had died.

R., at their meeting Thursday evening adopted resolutions thanking the Citizens' corps for the chairs furnished at the monument, the Bridgeport lodge of Elks for flowers, the Boy Scouts for their aid in the parade and General Sullivan chapter and Sons of the American Revolution for the collection served after the parade; also all patriotic citizens who aided in the observance of Memorial Day. Copies of the resolutions will be sent each organization. The Grand Army men have accepted an invitation to the Elks' Flag Day service on June 14.

Probate Court Allows $200 of $1,400 Claim

In their report submitted to the probate court today the commissioners on the estate of Mary Jane Mallette of Monroe, allow only $200 of the $1,400 claim, which was made by the heirs of the late Mrs. Mallette, but the commission, Malcolm MacFadden, Attorney at Law, has asked for the full amount. The court has allowed $200, Mrs. Mallette, who died April 10, 1912, left an estate appraised at $4,185.06. The hearings were held in the office of Attorney Merritt and at the last one nearly half the residents of the town of Monroe were in attendance as witnesses or spectators.

STONE FALLS ON FOOT OF WORKMAN; CRUSHES IT

While John Kerkos of 46 Calderwood avenue was working about the grounds of former Sheriff John Clark's home in Black Rock today, a huge stone, which was being moved, fell upon his foot, crushing it and making a deep laceration. Mr. Clark said at once placed Kerkos in his automobile and rushed him to the Emergency hospital where two stitches were taken in his left foot, after which he was taken to his home.

CLUES IN MYSTERY OF TORSO POINTING TOWARDS MILFORD

Police Believe Omen Auspicious For Unraveling Strange Murder Case.

Continued search is being made today by the police for Mrs. Harry Clark, wife of "Diamond Dick" Clark, reported as the possible victim of the murderer who buried the torso of an unidentified woman on Seaview avenue. Word has been received that Mrs. Clark may still be alive and in the vicinity of Old Point road, Milford, as she is believed to have written a son, stationed at Fort Leavenworth army barracks, Kansas, two or three months ago that she was then living with a family named Segue, on Old Point road, Milford.

The police have been unable today to ascertain the residence of a "Mrs. Segue" with whom the Clark woman is supposed to have been employed, and also point to the fact that if alive and in this vicinity she would probably have reported herself as living following the two days' publicity that has been given her search. It is likely that they will make a thorough search of Milford in connection with the Milford authorities tomorrow. The coincidence that all clues so far unearthed have pointed towards that town, is strongly commented upon today in police circles as an auspicious omen for unraveling the mystery.

FORESTERS RAISE COMMITTEE OF 35 TO BOOST ORDER

A committee of 35, which was composed of five representatives from each of the seven local courts of Foresters of America, met last evening at Foresters' hall, 62 Cannon street, and formed themselves into a public utility sub-committee already arranging for a field day and sheep roast the date and place of which will be announced at the next meeting of the committee, on June 18.

Much enthusiasm and interest is being shown in the new movement by all the members of the local courts. In all there are now some 2,000 Foresters in the city and the committee expect to increase the number materially within the next few months.

The June issue of the Foresters' National Journal carried a full page article on the recent Grand Court Convention held in this city. The magnificence of the entertainment and the completeness of all arrangements were highly praised and it was said that the convention held in Bridgeport was the finest state convention ever held in Connecticut.

HOWLAND'S

Entrances in Main Street, Fairfield Avenue, and Cannon Street. Bridgeport, Conn., Saturday, June 5, 1915. The Weather: Fair tonight and Sunday; northeast winds.

Lovely frocks for graduation—and later.

Lovely and fine, graduation frocks are planned for much satisfactory service after school days are over. They are young and graceful and dainty of both plan and effect. They are wonderfully fine of material. And they are so cleverly and thoroughly made that Daughter will wear one with true content and delight on a number of later occasions.

Beautiful embroidered nets, filmy voiles and marquisettes, crisp organdies, beautiful crepe de chine. Fine-pleated and handsome corded ruffles appear on some. Rich embroidery gives its charm. Some of the nets are strewn with designs that are truly handsome. Boleros, with their youthful air and jauntiness, are especially attractive.

Pure white, of course. Yet some have a touch of color at belt. And a few of the most-alluring have a separate coatee of colored silk—what delightful feature for occasion when white is not demanded! Prices, from $8.50 to $25, represent an actual saving of much time and fussing and some money.

Aerial And Undersea Raids Rouse British

Continued from Page 1 to Lemberg. Thus far the Austrians and Germans apparently have made little progress since the taking of Przemyśl, although an Austrian official report states that the Russians have been driven east to the vicinity of Medyka.

British and French reports indicate hard fighting on the western front without much progress for either side. The Belgian frontier has again been closed to traffic. This tends to confirm reports that the Germans are moving heavy reinforcements to their positions along the Yser Canal.

Police Must Have Definite Charges in Motorists' Arrests

Acting today in the case of Dr. W. J. Colgan who yesterday struck Baisan Eugnius, 336 Pembroke street, aged 5, taken to the Bridgeport hospital, and R. D. Cate, 301 Armistead street, who struck Sarah House, suffering with a possible fracture of the skull, Attorney Gray refused to prosecute either of the cases until fully investigated by the police and charges are brought by them.

This action and the precedent established will result in many of the principals in accidents being allowed to proceed on their way after their names have been taken by the policeman on the beat. Investigation will be made and where criminal negligence is shown, arrests may follow.
